

APJM Paper Develop Workshop

October 11, 2022

School of Economics and Business Administration

Chongqing University, Chongqing

Asia Pacific Journal of Management (APJM, SSCI, IF: 5.616) will conduct a paper development workshop (PDW) on October 11, 2022 (TBA) at the School of Economics and Business Administration, Chongqing University.

The workshop will be led by Li-Qun WEI, who is the Editor-in-Chief of APJM. Other panelists of PDW will include senior editors of APJM as well as other leading scholars.

The purpose of the PDW is to provide feedback to junior scholars and doctoral students on their research projects that are in advanced stage of development. Our objective is to encourage scholars to do quality research on issues that are of relevance to Asia. While we certainly hope that the authors will develop their work and submit to APJM, there is no obligation to do so.

We encourage authors to submit their original work under two categories - full length papers and idea papers. Full length papers should not be more than 10,000 words in length, while paper ideas should not be more than 2500 words in length. You can submit the papers that you have previously submitted to APJM or other journals to get developmental feedback during the PDW. The space is limited to 20 papers.

We welcome manuscripts on management and organizational research in the Asia Pacific region, encompassing Pacific Rim countries and mainland Asia. The major academic disciplines include entrepreneurship, human resource management, international business, organizational behavior, and strategic management. However, manuscripts that belong to other well-established disciplines such as accounting, economics, finance, marketing and operations generally do not fall into the scope of this PDW.

Please make your submissions to apjm2022@cqu.edu.cn by August 30, 2022. We will make the final decisions and inform the authors by September 15, 2022.
